

ENY-4660, Medical & Veterinary Entomology, 2 credits
Distance Education
Syllabus, Fall 2020

Instructor: Sarah Maestas
Email: sarah.maestas@ufl.edu
Laboratory: Entomology and Nematology Department, Room 3237
Office Hours: By appointment
Co-Course Requirements: ENY4660L (online)
Canvas Website: <https://elearning.ufl.edu/> (login with UF Gatorlink username and password)

Email: Each student must have an active email account. The University of Florida requires that you obtain a student ID# and a Gatorlink email account as part of your registration process. The instructor may send class announcements to your Gatorlink email account. While many of you already have independent email accounts, you must also obtain a University of Florida Gatorlink email account for use as a registered student.

Course Description: This is a 2-credit course that presents the major insect, mite, and tick vectors of disease to humans and animals. Students will learn to identify and understand the life cycles, morphology, and behavior of mosquitoes, ticks, mites, lice, fleas, and other disease vectors. Students also will learn about major arthropod-transmitted disease cycles, including malaria, Lyme disease, West Nile virus, leishmaniasis, and plague. The interaction between the disease-causing pathogen and the arthropod vector will be covered, including biological and mechanical transmission of pathogens as well as the mechanical damage that a parasite inflicts on its host.

Critical Thinking: With international travel and movement of people from place to place, it is difficult to determine the origins of a disease outbreak. Students will be expected to identify the vector, pathogen, and location of a person associated with a vector-borne disease. Critical thinking & communication will be evaluated by downloading a research paper from the course website, analyzing each of the specific portions of the paper (literature review, objectives, materials and methods, results, and discussion), and submitting an evaluation of the downloaded research paper as a Word document.

Course Lectures: Course lectures are on the Canvas course website. Lecture notes and class schedule are also on the Canvas website and available for download.

Grades and Grade Points

For information on current UF policies for assigning grade points, see <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>

Course Technology

All students should have unlimited access to a computer with either Windows 7 or Mac OS X operating systems. Students should make sure to have access to a back-up computer in case of equipment failure. A high-speed Internet connection is highly recommended. Students will need speakers, microphone, and headphones to hear and record presentations. Microsoft Office PowerPoint is recommended for the presentation assignment but OpenOffice (freeware) may suffice <http://www.openoffice.org/>.

Plagiarism

The purpose in bringing to your attention the matter of plagiarism is to help train you to be an ethical person, not to impugn your character. Plagiarism is a serious problem in academia today, especially with the ease of obtaining information from the World Wide Web. Plagiarism is defined as representing the words or ideas of another person as one's own, without attribution to the source. All words and ideas must be attributed to a source unless they are considered common knowledge (i.e., widely known by many people and found in many different sources). There are many kinds of plagiarism, as you will read on the Guide to Plagiarism website referenced below. One of the most common forms is insufficient paraphrasing. Even with attribution, you may be guilty of insufficient paraphrasing because your sentence too closely follows the content and structure of the cited author's sentence.

Plagiarism is unethical, unacceptable, and prohibited by the UF Student Honor Code (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/honorcodes/honorcode.php>). The consequences for plagiarism at the University of Florida range from receiving a grade of zero for the plagiarized assignment or a failing grade for the course, to expulsion from the University for repeated offenses. Plagiarism after schooling calls into question one's integrity and can lead to banning of publication in journals and the loss of jobs/careers.

In some countries, it is an acceptable practice to write in a manner that faculty members at the University of Florida consider as plagiarism. Students studying at our university and with plans to publish their research in the English language need to know what plagiarism is and how to avoid it. Students who plagiarize will be caught and consequences will be applied. I check all written assignments using anti-plagiarism software called Turnitin® (http://turnitin.com/en_us/products/originalitycheck). Students who plagiarize will receive a grade of zero on the assignment. The second instance of plagiarism in the course will result in an automatic failing grade in the course. For further information and examples of plagiarism, read the George Smathers' Library Guide to Plagiarism at <http://www.uflib.ufl.edu/msl/07b/students.html> UF Policies Academic Honesty As a student at the University of Florida, you have committed yourself to uphold the Honor Code, which includes the following pledge: "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity."

You are expected to exhibit behavior consistent with this commitment to the UF academic community, and on all work submitted for credit at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."

It is assumed that you will complete all work independently in each course unless the instructor provides explicit permission for you to collaborate on course tasks (e.g. assignments, papers, quizzes, exams). Furthermore, as part of your obligation to uphold the Honor Code, you should report to appropriate personnel any condition that facilitates academic misconduct. It is your individual responsibility to know and comply with all university policies and procedures regarding academic integrity and the Student Honor Code. Violations of the Honor Code at the University of Florida will not be tolerated. Violations will be reported to the Dean of Students Office for consideration of disciplinary action. For more information regarding the Student Honor Code, please see:

<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/SCCR/honorcodes/honorcode.php>.

Software Use

All faculty, staff and students of the university are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against university policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.

Netiquette: Communication Courtesy

All members of the class are expected to follow rules of common courtesy in all email messages, threaded discussions and chats.

Online Course Evaluation Process

Student assessment of instruction is an important part of efforts to improve teaching and learning. At the end of the semester, students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course using a standard set of university and college criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open for students to complete during the last two or three weeks of the semester; students will be notified of the specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results>.
